

The events of the Gathering have shown the Faction it must act to save the Southlands from the approaching threat of its enemies.

The time to act is now, no-one can stand aside in these times of peril.

Rules and Regulations

The organisers' decision is final in any/all disputes. The organisers reserve the right to bar entry to, or expel, any person considered undesirable to the good name of LRP, the organisers, or The Lorien Trust. The organisers are not obliged to give any explanation for their decision.

The organisers will inform the authorities if anyone attending the event is caught breaking the law.

The organisers will expel anyone found engaging in activities potentially dangerous to themselves or others, or whose activities are considered to be disruptive to the event, the good name of LRP, the organisers, or The Lorien Trust.

The organisers will charge you for the repair or replacement of any of the organisers' property (or property in the care of the organisers) that you have lost, damaged, vandalised, destroyed or stolen at any of the organisers' events.

Refunds on applications will be subject to an administration fee. Cancellations made with seven days of the start of the event will not be refunded. Tickets are non-transferable, except by prior arrangement with the organisers.

Secondary characters may only be played by prior arrangement with the organisers.

The organisers request that all potentially serious medical conditions be declared when booking, and that any changes to medical conditions and/or next-of-kin details be declared to the organisers in writing as soon as they become known. Failure to do so is at the attendee's own risk.

All participants of a Live Role Play event agree that LRP safe weapons may be used on them.
